Geography The village is situated on the A428 Harrold to Dunstable road approximately north of Dunstable and south of Luton. It is in the extreme eastern end of the Woburn Sands area. The A14 and M1 motorways lie to the east and north respectively. History Brompton and Burdett has existed since before the time of the Normans. In the Domesday Book, the name of the settlement was "Brompton" and the land was owned by Hugh de Morville. The name Brompton comes from Brython ap Brython who was the grandson of Brython ap Nudd. As the land stretched further west than what is now Burdett, the ancient Brythons built a number of earth mounds which are now known as the Woburn Sands. Many are visible on the east side of the A428 carriageway. Before the 20th century, the area was mostly farmland with the church of St Mary being the centre of a large parish until the construction of Dunstable High School in the 1920s. In 1974 Brompton and Burdett parish was formed from the eastern half of the old parish of Woburn and all the surrounding areas. References External links
